About the Department

The Department of Sociology was established by the University of Delhi in 1959 as a constituent of the Delhi School of Economics with the eminent sociologist Professor M.N. Srinivas as Head of the Department. In 1968, the Department was recognized as a Centre of Advanced Study in Sociology by the University Grants Commission (UGC), the first Department of Sociology to receive this recognition and has continued to be a Centre of Advanced Study since then.

The Department of Sociology in Delhi School of Economics is unique in itself as the department has students from different parts of India as well as from universities abroad. It has a coordinated program of teaching and research covering a variety of fields, including some developed for the first time in the country.

The students actively participate in discussion, research work, deep understanding of concepts; instilled by an institution in order to prepare students for a bright future.

Why recruit from us?

- Students graduate with extensive knowledge and rigorous training in various sub-fields of Sociology and Anthropology
- Equipped with problem-solving skills
- Trained in research methodologies: handling both qualitative and quantitative data.
- Our students are potential assets. They will add value and contribute meaningfully to your organization.

Our Alumni

Graduates of the Department have been successful in finding jobs with some of the best employers in the country across several fields. Training with respect to critical analysis and assessment of social currents in the Indian and global context has helped out graduates to not just find traditional job opportunities in academics but also in NGOs, bureaucracy, media, PR, advertising and the corporate sector.

Placement Process

An organization may invite applications from students either by asking them to fill application forms or submit their curriculum vitae.

Organizations are advised to conduct pre-placement talks (PPT) for students to have a clear idea of the company's outlook, job profile offered and other relevant details

Recruitment schedule: After the PPTs are concluded, the schedule for final recruitments is drawn up. This is done through a voting process involving all registered members of the placement cell.

Companies are evaluated based on: Job profile offered, location of work, scope for career advancement and compensation offered. Once organizations have been decided, each will be allotted a specific day for conducting its recruitment process.

Companies with a multi-stage recruitment process may conduct them prior to commencement of placement week.
